Aava

Aava transforms the essential and efficient to an evocative form. Soft curves yield a contemporary silhouette that is both striking yet sensitive, an adaptive form that can speak or assimilate to any environment. From the original wooden collection, Aava's line has expanded to include the polypropylene shell in a soft, elegant range of colors lending quiet sophistication to Aava's fluid lines.

Suitable for both residential and contract use, Aava can be created in different materials, colors and finishes. Expertly modelled with varying thicknesses, which highlight its sinuous profile, the shell is made of polypropylene or plywood veneered with birch wood effect available in various colors: natural, black, white, oak, walnut. It can come with full or front face upholstery in fabric, leather or faux leather. Bases include wooden leg version, sled version or chromed 4 leg version, with or without armrests.

The chromed 4 leg and sled base versions are stackable to allow large-scale use and easy storage.

Aava's essential and evocative form is made even more versatile by the new inclusion of an aluminium trestle base and options for stationary or swivel function. The striking yet sensitive form that seamlessly integrates into any space has added more adaptability and customization to its thoroughly modern silhouette.

Designer

Antti Kotilainen, 2013

Design Office Antti Kotilainen was founded 1997 in Helsinki. Specializing in furniture design his studio also provides product design as well as complete visual concepts ranging from graphic to spatial design.

Characteristic for Kotilainen's design work is organic functionalism set to meet contemporary qualifications.

Behind his work is a drive to refine technical issues and details – of the manufacturing process and the applicability alike – into aesthetics of the final product. His aim is to compose designs that look as effortless as they look essential. In the best Scandinavian tradition Kotilainen has explored new ways to work with wood in numerous of his furniture designs. Since the year 1993 he has collaborated with several Scandinavian furniture manufacturers. Aava is the result of our first collaboration.
